DAVINCI INSTITUTE NOMINATIONS DUE JANUARY 25... One of our original founders, the DaVinci Institute - Oklahoma's Creativity Think Tank, wants to recognize a deserving A+ educator. The DaVinci Institute is a unique partnership of leaders in higher education across the state whose goal is to nurture the arts, sciences, humanities, and education in Oklahoma as these fields undergo transformations in the twenty-first century. The work that educators do is vital to this process; now is the time to acknowledge creative and innovative "A+" work. To do this, the DaVinci Institute is announcing its first-ever DaVinci A+ Teacher Award, a $1000 prize to a teacher in an Oklahoma A+ School.

Full-time teachers working in an Oklahoma A+ School are eligible for this award. There are two pieces to the application; first the Principal Nomination Form and second a Teacher Statement from the Nominee. The deadline for submission is January 25, 2010, at 5:00pm. The application is an interactive Adobe file which you can access from our website, <http://www.aplusok.org>. If you or your nominee would like to submit any supplemental materials, such as videos, audio recordings, examples of lessons, workshops presented, please submit these to the A+ office on a DVD or CD (no paper, please!) by the Jan. 25 deadline. We are delighted to have this opportunity to recognize an A+ teacher through the DaVinci Institute's prestigious award.

COMING SOON ... Application for San Francisco Symphony's Keeping Score 2010. Join the A+ teachers who have studied music with world class professionals in San Francisco. More information and applications will be sent to all A+ Principals and Coordinators next week.

"PRIDE" BRINGS DEL CITY ELEMENTARY COMMUNITY TOGETHER

Like most students in A+ schools, the kids at Del City Elementary enjoy an active day of math, social studies, science, reading, and the arts. But when the bell rings at 3:15, their day is far from over, and the fun is just beginning. After a healthy snack, a quick recess, and a chance to finish some homework, PRIDE begins.

"Panthers Rally In Developmental Enrichment" was the vision of Del City Elementary Principal, Ruth Kizer, who wanted something exceptional and "far-reaching" for their after-school program. She wrote a five-year grant and created it, with PRIDE.

For nearly one third of the Del El community, this after-school program is an enriching, integral part of their school day, and it involves a seven-day rotation which incorporates fourteen different classes. From archery to cooking, math enrichment to drama, robotics to storytelling, the classes are varied and engaging.

The small classes of eight to ten students provide each learner time to experience a subject more deeply, receive one-on-one help from the instructor, and to try something that they might not otherwise have the opportunity to explore. Aside from being a great way to enrich each student's learning, Principal Kizer said that PRIDE has really brought the Del El community together and given teachers the opportunity to become acquainted with students from other grade levels.

ESSENTIAL EVIDENCE

Our newest research is due to be published in 2010. In this five-volume report, A+ Researchers have identified three drivers of successful engagement in the network -- Principal Leadership, Faculty Engagement, and Professional Development. The illustration below shows the potential overlap and alignment of these three drivers. The greater the coherence and alignment of these three pieces, the greater the degree of transformative power within the school. When any of the drivers is not aligned or less present in the school, there is less potential for the great results described in our research. Where can you affect the extent of a driver and its alignment within your school?

The greater the level of engagement in the OAS process, the more effectively A+ brings about sustainable school change.

(This area indicates the degree of transform-mindedness within a school.)

All Around A+

CONGRATULATIONS "LIFE CHANGE BALLROOM" WINNERS!! ... Three A+ Schools were the top winners at last month's citywide "Life Change Ballroom" dance competition, held at Rose State Theatre! Congratulations to MARK TWAIN for becoming the new 1st Place Championship team! Millwood Fine Arts Academy took 2nd Place, and Western Village Academy placed 3rd.

THE STANLEY F. HUPFELD ACADEMY AT WESTERN VILLAGE ... INTEGRIS President and CEO, Stanley F. Hupfeld, established the partnership between INTEGRIS and Western Village Academy. His vision and commitment have resulted in extraordinary changes in the opportunities for the school and surrounding community. Because WVA is so close to Mr. Hupfeld's heart, the INTEGRIS Board of Directors honored Mr. Hupfeld at a dinner on December 4, 2009, by renaming the school as The Stanley F. Hupfeld Academy at Western Village. This is further recognition of the INTEGRIS commitment to WVA and a wonderful acknowledgment of a fine man who has done so much for the WVA children, the community, and staff!
